

Unique Selling Point (USP)

What is the USP?

Unique selling point is the distinctive advantage that differentiates a product, service, or brand from competitors in the market. It explains why customers should choose a particular offering over alternatives.

Think of it as the “special reason” people buy from you.

Key Features of a USP:

1. Unique – Something your competitors don’t offer (or not in the same way).
2. Clear – Easy for customers to understand right away.
3. Valuable – Solves a real problem or provides a benefit that matters to the customer.
4. Memorable – Sticks in the customer’s mind and influences buying decisions.

➤ Businesses use USP in marketing campaigns such as: (ads, slogans), To define target audience and communicate directly to their needs.

Personalized USP:

“I deliver modern, affordable websites powered by AI and creativity—saving clients time while keeping communication simple and clear.”
